1. Overview

Skipper Restricted Limits (SRL) certificate of competency

This guideline is for new applicants for the Skipper Restricted Limits (SRL) certificate of competency. It does not cover recognition of an equivalent certificate obtained outside New Zealand.

The information in this guideline covers training, sea service and other requirements for the certificate, how to apply and pay for your certificate, and where to find more information.

Your SRL certificate is valid for five years.

For more details about the requirements for recognitions and renewals (revalidation), refer to the Maritime New Zealand (MNZ) website:

maritimenz.govt.nz/seafarers

SRL is an entry-level command certificate with engineering components. With SRL, you can perform a skipper's (master's) functions and duties on:

- passenger and non-passenger ships less than 12 metres length overall, carrying up to 19 passengers within restricted limits (which includes both enclosed and inshore limits)
- fishing vessels less than 12 metres length overall, in enclosed, inshore and inshore fishing limits.

Refer to the Advisory Circular for Part 20: Operating Limits for more information about operational limits for vessels.

Note: You are not able to skipper your vessel in a commercial activity unless you have an SRL certificate. However, you must be acting as skipper if you operate your vessel as a pleasure craft while you complete your sea service and other requirements for the SRL certificate.

From SRL, you can obtain endorsements that enable you to command larger ships, carry more passengers and/or operate in specific areas. Refer to the guidelines for endorsements on MNZ's website.

Disclaimer:

These guidelines provide information and explanations about the requirements set out in the maritime rules, but are not a substitute for the rules themselves, which are the law. These guidelines refer to provisions in the Maritime Rules Part 32, Seafarer Certification. The Director of Maritime New Zealand (MNZ) will grant a certificate only when satisfied that all requirements have been met. In this guideline, any references to 'we' or Maritime New Zealand (MNZ) relating to a decision about the issue or renewal of any seafarer certificate are references to the Director or a person acting under the Director's delegated authority.

2. Requirements

Before you spend time doing sea service and training, we recommend you check that you can meet the medical fitness and eyesight standards (including for colour vision), and that you understand the fit and proper person requirements.

To get this certificate, you need to prove that you meet all of the requirements. In summary, you need to:

- be at least 18 years old
- be medically fit and have good eyesight (visual acuity and colour vision)
- be of good character and a fit and proper person
- complete 200 hours of sea service and an approved training record book (TRB)
- complete an approved training course
- have the required ancillary certificates
- pass MNZ's final exam.

Each of these requirements and how to prove that you meet them is explained below.

Extra requirements for owner/operators

As well as gaining an SRL certificate, seafarers intending to work as an owner/operator need to meet the requirements for safe ship management. MNZ's new Maritime Operator Safety System (MOSS) framework requires maritime operators to develop a Maritime Transport Operator Plan (MTOPlan) detailing their safety responsibilities and procedures.

For more information about MOSS, refer to MNZ's website: maritimenz.govt.nz/moss

2.1 Prior certification and qualifications

None required.

2.2 Sea service

Sea service requirements

You must complete at least 200 hours of sea service on a powered ship of any kind and complete an approved on-board training record book (TRB) while on board a ship. (It may take you longer than 200 hours to complete the activities in the TRB.)

For service on a commercial ship or warship, you are responsible for recording your hours of sea service in your TRB and having this verified by your skipper.

You can gain your sea service on a pleasure craft, but only if you act in the capacity of skipper. If your sea service is obtained in this way, you must complete your service record in the TRB and must also complete a statutory declaration stating that the service recorded is a true and accurate record of your sea service.

You must record your actual hours at sea. Note that sea service of more than eight hours in any 24-hour period is only counted as eight hours of sea service. Accordingly, you will need to complete a minimum 25 days of sea service (25 days at eight hours per day = 200 hours).

On-board training record book

While on board carrying out your sea service, you must complete an evidence-based training record book (TRB), which you can download from the MNZ website. You must complete the TRB within the five years preceding the date of your application for an SRL certificate.

You may complete your sea service on a combination of commercial vessels and/or warships, and as the skipper on pleasure craft.

If you complete any of your TRB while acting as skipper on a pleasure craft, demonstration of competency may be required by the training provider.

If you complete all of the TRB on board a commercial ship, your TRB must be signed by the skipper or another certificated crew member.

About the on-board training record book

The TRB is designed to help you obtain practical skills and competencies for the SRL certificate in a workplace environment. This training will complement the shore-based training that you must undertake before sitting the MNZ-approved final examination.

All of the competencies required for SRL can be gained through a combination of the TRB activities and attending an approved SRL training course. The TRB activities can be completed while serving aboard a commercial vessel, warship or as skipper on a pleasure craft.

The TRB book should be completed before starting a block training course, and may be completed before or during a modular training course such as a unit standard undertaken over a period of time. Information about approved training providers for SRL courses is available on the MNZ website.

The completed TRB and accompanying evidence will be made available to training providers and the approved MNZ examiner for the final examination (which you must pass before MNZ can issue your SRL certificate of competency). After successfully completing the final examination, you must send the completed TRB to MNZ, along with your application, so that MNZ can verify your sea service before issuing the certificate.

Requirements to prove your sea service and on-board training

To support your sea service, your TRB needs to:

- be the original version, not a copy
- have all relevant records completed
- have all relevant project work completed and signed off by the ship's master or a qualified certificated officer (as indicated in the TRB).

Keep your TRB in a safe place. We also recommend that you make a copy of the completed sections and associated evidence, and also store these in a safe place – but separately from your TRB.

Endorsement for vessels up to 24 metres

You may complete the SRL certificate requirements and the additional sea service required for an endorsement for vessels up to 24m, and apply for the certificate and endorsement at the same time. To do this, you must do six months' sea service in a deck capacity on a commercial vessel of 12 metres length or more, as well as completing all of the requirements for your SRL certificate.

2.3 Training

You must attend and pass an SRL training course that is acceptable to the Director to achieve all of the required competencies, and then pass MNZ's final examination.

Contact an approved training provider for information about the SRL training course. For more information about approved training providers and the competency framework for SRL, refer to the MNZ website.

maritimenz.govt.nz/seafarers

Final examination

You must pass a final exam to show you have met the standards of competency required.

The final examination is currently an oral examination by an MNZ-approved Maritime Examiner, which is usually arranged by your training provider.

You need to give your completed training record book (see 2.2. Sea service) to the examiner before you undertake the final exam. Your results will be sent to MNZ.

Refer to the MNZ website for more information.

maritimenz.govt.nz/seafarers

Ancillary certificates

Before we can issue your SRL certificate, you must provide MNZ with copies of the ancillary certificates you gained as part of your SRL training. Your ancillary certificates must:

- still be current (not expired) when we issue your SRL certificate
- be from a training provider approved to deliver the course or accredited to assess against the relevant standard under the Education Act, or from a course approved by MNZ.

If you already have a certificate that demonstrates proficiency in the areas outlined below and at the required level, you may use it – as long as you meet the requirements set out above and the documents you provide show details of the assessment standards achieved. For more information, refer to the guidelines for ancillary certificates on MNZ’s website: maritimenz.govt.nz/seafarers

Note: The organisations that issue New Zealand first aid certificates generally determine the validity period of the certificate (usually two years) and may require you to undertake refresher training to ensure your training stays up to date.

Document(s) you must provide

First aid certificate (Unit Standards 6400, 6401, 6402 or Unit Standards 6400, 26551, 26522 or equivalent revised standards acceptable to the Director)

Maritime restricted radiotelephone operator’s certificate (MRROC) issued under the Radio Communications Act 1989 or an equivalent under the International Radio Regulations

We do not need to see any of the documents you have already sent to us for other applications – just make a note about these documents in your application.
