1. Overview

Watchkeeper Deck

This guideline is for new applicants for the Watchkeeper Deck certificate of competency. It does not cover recognition of an equivalent certificate obtained outside New Zealand.

The information in this guideline covers sea service, training and other requirements for the certificate, how to apply and pay for your certificate, and where to find more information.

Once you have your Watchkeeper Deck certificate, it is valid for five years. To continue using your certificate you will need to renew it before the expiry date. For more information about the requirements for renewals (revalidation), refer to the Maritime New Zealand (Maritime NZ) website.

maritimenz.govt.nz/seafarers

The Watchkeeper Deck certificate corresponds with a certificate issued under regulation II/1 of the International Convention on the Standards of Training, Certification and Watchkeeping for Seafarers, 1978, as amended (STCW).

With this certificate, you can perform the functions and duties of officer in charge of a navigational watch (navigational watchkeeper) on ships of any gross tonnage in any operating area. While on watch, you are responsible at all times for the safe navigation of the ship.

From Watchkeeper Deck, you can progress to Chief Mate on ships less than 3000 gross tonnage, Chief Mate, Master on ships less than 500 gross tonnage, or Master.

Disclaimer

These guidelines provide information and explanations about the requirements set out in the maritime rules, but are not a substitute for the rules themselves, which are the law. These guidelines refer to provisions in the Maritime Rules Part 32, Seafarer Certification. The Director of Maritime New Zealand will grant a certificate only when satisfied that all requirements have been met.

In this guideline, any references to 'we' or Maritime New Zealand relating to a decision about the issue or renewal of any seafarer certificate are references to the Director or a person acting under the Director's delegated authority.

2. Requirements

Before you spend time doing sea service and training, we recommend you check that you can meet the medical fitness and eyesight standards (including for colour vision), and that you understand the fit and proper person requirements.

A summary of the requirements for this certificate is provided below. You need to meet all of these requirements to get your Watchkeeper Deck certificate.

- prove you have the minimum sea service requirements for the option you choose
- complete and pass the approved qualification for Watchkeeper Deck
- have the required STCW ancillary certificates and the STCW global maritime distress and safety system (GMDSS) certificate of competency
- pass Maritime NZ's final exam
- prove that you are a fit and proper person
- be medically fit and have good eyesight and
- be at least 18 years old.

Each of these requirements and how to prove that you meet them is explained on the following pages.

You must also have English conversation, reading and writing skills appropriate to the responsibilities and functions for the level of your certificate, so that you can satisfactorily complete training, pass examinations and discharge your duties.

2.1 Prior certification

No prior certification or qualifications are required for this certificate of competency.

2.2 Sea service

Your sea service must be relevant and appropriate to the requirements of regulation II/1 of the STCW Convention. This means that it must be in a deck or navigating capacity on a commercial ship.

All your sea service must be obtained within the 10 years preceding your application.

It is preferred that you complete your sea service on vessels of 500 GT or more, operating beyond restricted limits. However, sea service that does not meet this specific requirement will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

Sea service requirements

You can choose from two options for the sea service requirements for Watchkeeper Deck, as shown below. You must complete one of them.

Option 1

At least 12 months' sea service as part of an approved training programme (such as a cadet programme) that includes on-board training documented in an approved training record book. The 12 months is to include at least six months of bridge watchkeeping duties under the supervision of the master or a qualified officer.

Option 2

At least 36 months' sea service. The 36 months is to include at least six months of bridge watchkeeping duties under the supervision of the master or a qualified officer.

2. Requirements (continued)

Proving your sea service

You are responsible for making sure your sea service is documented and verified by your ship's master or company.

For Option 1 we suggest that you complete the summary of sea service form contained in your training record book.

For Option 2 you will need to keep track of your sea service. You may use the summary of sea service form available on the Maritime NZ website to help you achieve this. This form is not required to support your application.

To prove your sea service, you must provide at least one of the following documents for each vessel you have served on:

- certificate of sea service or record of employment (available on Maritime NZ's website)
- completed seafarer's record book
- discharge certificate or discharge book (ensuring that any section on watchkeeping is appropriately signed off)
- letter from your employer.

The documents you provide must contain all of the following details for each vessel you have served on:

- your employer's name and contact details
- the name, tonnage and type of vessel (for example, cargo vessel, tanker, bulk carrier, passenger)
- the type of cargo carried and area of operation
- the dates you were employed and the sea time completed between those dates
- your duties and the capacities you served in.

Any statutory declarations you have made are generally not acceptable as proof of your sea service. However, the Director will consider these in exceptional circumstances.

2. Requirements (continued)

Calculating sea service for voyages of 24 hours or more

Relevant qualifying sea service is expected to be on voyages of 24 hours or more, calculated as follows:

- from the sign-on date of starting work on the ship to the sign-off date of discharge (both dates are inclusive)
- by counting each whole calendar month during this period as one month
- for multiple voyages, by adding extra days that do not fall within a calendar month together, with each addition of 30 days to be calculated as one month.

Extended time in port is generally not counted as sea service, and nor is time on leave.

Note

Voyage means a voyage between a port or place of departure and a ship's final port or place of arrival. It includes any period of 24 hours (or more) where you are signed on or employed on the vessel and you remain on board.

For example: If your service record shows your sign-on date as 3 March and sign-off date as 14 April, your sea service would be calculated as one month (3 March to 2 April) and 12 days (from 3 to 14 April inclusive).

Calculating sea service for voyages of less than 24 hours

This sea service only applies to Option 2, where service in excess of 12 months may be on voyages of less than 24 hours, provided all of the conditions of sea service are met.

Sea service on voyages of less than 24 hours (for example, day work) is calculated by counting the number of months made up of days, as follows:

- counting each period of eight (or more) hours worked within each period of 24 hours as one day's service
- counting periods of more than eight hours at a rate of more than one day (may be expressed in decimal points), at the Director's discretion, if the Director is satisfied there are suitable policies and processes in place to manage fatigue
- counting each additional 20 days (or more) in a 30-day period as one month's sea service. A month is calculated as 160 or more hours worked over 20 or more days in a 30-day period.

Where insufficient hours are accrued in a period of 30 days, additional hours or days may be accrued as described above until 20 days have been reached. This can then be counted as one month's sea service.

You cannot claim for more days of sea service than you actually served. You also cannot claim for time spent on leave or extended periods in port.

For more information about calculating your sea service, refer to the Maritime NZ website.

2. Requirements (continued)

Sea service pre-assessment

If you are unsure about whether you have met the sea service requirements, you can ask us to assess your sea service time before you make your full application.

To have your sea service pre-assessed, you need to:

- apply for pre-assessment using Maritime NZ's pre-assessment form
- send us the documents we need (see Proving your sea service) in order to check your sea service.

Note

If you are pre-assessed and have the required sea service for the Watchkeeper Deck certificate, add your pre-assessment reference number to your seafarer certificate application form.

If there is a delay between getting your pre-assessment completed and applying for your Watchkeeper Deck certificate, make sure your sea service was obtained within the 10 years preceding the date of your certificate application.

2. Requirements (continued)

2.3 Training

You must complete training that is acceptable to the Director of Maritime NZ to achieve all of the required competencies for this certificate, as specified in section A-II/1 of the STCW Convention.

Approved training

For Options 1 and 2, the approved training qualification for Watchkeeper Deck is the Diploma in Nautical Science Level 6. The diploma is available through the New Zealand Maritime School (Auckland) and the International Maritime Institute of New Zealand (Nelson).

Documents you must provide with your application

Requirement	Document(s) you must provide
Option 1 Diploma in Nautical Science (Level 6) with evidence of approved training programme, including on-board training and completion of your approved training record book	The diploma certificate showing your name and the date of issue. Alternatively, a copy of your academic transcript evidencing completion of the qualification. Evidence of completion of an approved training programme that includes on-board training that has been documented in an accepted training record book. This is often referred to as a cadet programme. The evidence is likely to be a letter from the training provider.
Option 2 Diploma in Nautical Science (Level 6)	The diploma certificate showing your name and the date of issue. Alternatively, a copy of your academic transcript evidencing completion of the qualification.

If you do not have one of these books, contact Maritime NZ to determine whether the training record book you are using is acceptable.

Your training record book will be assessed by your training provider.

You must provide the original of your training record book to an approved Maritime NZ Examiner before you take your final exam.

Your training record book needs to:

- be the original, not a copy
- have all relevant records completed
- have all relevant project work completed and signed off by the ship's master or a qualified certificated officer, as indicated in the book.

Keep your training record book in a safe place. We also recommend you make a copy of the completed sections and the associated evidence, storing these in a safe place too – but separately from your training record book.

If you do not complete an approved training programme, which includes on-board training documented in an approved training record book, you must comply with Option 2.
